

Overview of serious misconduct

Quarter one 2021/22

Summary

In quarter one of 2021/22, the Corruption and Crime Commission received 696 reports and notifications of serious misconduct relating to 45 agencies, 28 Local Government Authorities (LGAs), and 1,826 allegations were identified.

- Just over half (947) of these allegations were created from reports from members of the public.
- Notifications by authorities accounted for just under half (850) of the overall allegations.
- The Public Sector Commission's notifications and the Commission's own propositions representing the remainder (29).
- The count of allegations created continues to remain high with an average of 2.6 allegations created per report or notification.
- Reports and notifications about LGAs, Department of Education and the health sector show slight increases in total numbers reported.
- 'Out of Jurisdiction' or 'No agency specified' allegations include agencies which do not fall within the Commission's jurisdiction (eg Federal agencies, private contractors) in the case of the former. With the latter, this includes reports which specify alleged corrupt conduct by a person or persons, but do not specify the particular agency involved.

WA Police Force

- Fifty-five per cent of all allegations of police misconduct relate to notifications sent by the WA Police Force to the Commission with the remainder arising from reports from members of the public.
- The top three allegation categories relating to WA Police Force are generally the same for each quarter though the order they are in sometimes changes across quarters.
- The top three allegation categories account for just under three-fifths of all police misconduct allegations received.

WA Public Sector (excluding WA Police Force)

- The top three allegation categories account for seventy per cent (544) of all allegations received for the wider public sector (780).
- Allegations assessed as 'Out of jurisdiction' can include those where the relevant agency is within the Commission's jurisdiction, but the person involved is either not a public officer, or engaging in conduct that does not meet the definition of serious misconduct within the meaning of the Corruption, Crime And Misconduct Act 2003.
- Allegations relating to public officers corruptly using their positions for benefit or detriment feature consistently across the sector and consistently account for around one quarter of allegation categories.
- Assault allegations include excessive use of force, physical and sexual/indecent assault. Agencies subject to excessive use of force allegations include the Department of Justice and Public Transport Authority. Allegations of assaults of a physical nature include those referencing teachers with the Department of Education where matters reach the threshold for reporting to the Commission.

Spotlight on Local Government

Sector	Notifying authorities within Local Government (LG) include the 148 Local Government Authorities (LGAs) that constitute the sector. LGAs provide a range of essential and valued services to the Western Australian community. They range from large city councils to very small remote shires. Each LGA is responsible for its own governance with the Department of Local Government, Sport and Cultural Industries (DLGSCI) regulating and supporting the LG sector.
